REMARKS

re DD/A 81-2336 (ER 81-2758)

1 - A check with OS revealed that they do not have a Mr. Peterson assigned to that Office nor do they know of anyone who has made any contact with 3M or received any inquiries from 3M. It was suggested, however, that perhaps you are the proper person to direct the attached letter to for any appropriate response because you have been working on subject matter. It would be appreciated if you would provide Executive Secretary and DDA Registry with copies of any response made by your Office.

Mr. William J. Casey
Director - Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, D. C. 20535

Dear Mr. Casey:

I am writing this letter in response to a phone conversation between Colleen Lang of 3M and Mr. Peterson of the CIA security staff.

Our Safety and Security Division currently markets a "Tattle-Tape" system (literature enclosed) which is sold to academic and public libraries for the prevention of book theft. This system has been well received by libraries, and 3M is currently the major supplier of electronic theft protection equipment in this area.

Over the past several years, we have received several inquiries relating to the usage of "Tattle-Tape" for protection of classified documents. These inquiries have come from both governmental people and government related industries.

It has been suggested that a feature enabling a photocopier to "sense" the document tag and not allow a copy to be made would also be desirable. This latter feature is not currently available, but appears to be technically feasible.

We have not, unfortunately, been able to sustain contact or obtain information from the government people, either due to the changing of Administrations or the fact that the results or interest expressed has in itself been classified information.

In order to justify continued R&D expenditures for this type of product, we would like to determine the following information from your agency:

1. Is there a need for classified information to be protected from a) removal from the premises or b) being photocopied - or both?
2. Would this material be of book, pamphlet, or written page form?

Mr. William J. Casey

3. Can estimates be made of the number of a) documents b) photocopiers and c) individual offices needing this protection?

If there is an interest in obtaining further information or arranging a demonstration of this equipment, please contact me or Mr. Bill Stone (612-736-0645) of Safety and Security Systems.

Sincerely yours,
